

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1906.

The Democrats hold the balance of power in the Tennessee Legislature.

The only road to an honest election law lies through a constitutional convention.

The Aniston Hot Blast has been improved in appearance by a change of form.

It is proposed to settle the post-office struggle in Aniston by a primary election.

Carter, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, concedes the control of the United States Senate to the Democrats.

There is a deadlock in the organization of the Nebraska Senate. In the House the Independents have taken all the offices.

The Supreme Court of the State has decided the contest over the judgeship in Conecuh county in favor of Lee (Kolb) who was counted out.

The Democrats and the Populists have organized the Montana Legislature, but the margin between the combination and the Republicans is very slim.

A prominent Kolb man in this county has assured the editor of the Aniston Hot Blast that the Kolb men in Calhoun will favor a constitutional convention.

The Talladega County Alliance has had a meeting and resolved to stand by the Ocala platform. Dr. Groce was present. The dispatch does not state how many were present.

Trouble is again about to break out at Coal Creek, Tenn., among the miners. The troops have been fired on lately and the military authorities are preparing for the worst.

Messrs. Porter, Williams and Morris all board at the same place in Montgomery and are in thorough accord on local measures. The interests of the people are safe in their hands.

Solicitor W. W. Quarles, of Dallas, has written a strong letter to the Birmingham Age-Herald in favor of a constitutional convention and then an honest election law which will secure a free ballot and fair count, based on an intelligent and honest suffrage.

It looks as if the Republicans will organize the Kansas Legislature. The Populists threaten bloodshed if they cannot have their way. They have contested several seats in the Legislature, but so far the supreme court of the State has ruled against them.

On January 3rd a masked mob of 500 men took Calvin Snipes, a murderer from the jail at Bakerville, Mo., and hung him.

The sheriff, with a posse, defended the prisoner. Seven of the sheriff's posse and twenty-five of the mob were killed.

Hon. Lewis J. Morris, while in Jacksonville last week, freely committed himself to the constitutional convention. He had no means of securing the views of Representative Williams or Senator Porter, but presume there will be no inharmonious in Calhoun's delegation on this question.

Prominent Clevelanders recently called on Col. Dan Lamont, Cleveland's former private Secretary, and asked him about the treatment those would receive who had opposed Cleveland. Lamont replied that he did not care to talk about that matter, but that Cleveland would certainly not forget the men who were in favor of him.

We can see no reason for calling on the State Democratic Executive Committee to give its sanction to the bill calling a constitutional convention. A Democratic caucus determines in favor of such a bill. There are two State committees claiming to be Democratic and it is impossible to one and neglect of the other will inevitably lead to a division of the white people on a measure on which there should be no division and may be counter of action.

The Legislature will meet the 19th of this month and will remain in session twenty-seven working days, or a little more than a month's time including Sundays and holidays. It is during the latter end of the session that all questionable measures—all measures which the projectors are afraid to submit to the people during recess—are sprung upon the Legislature. We sincerely trust that this present Legislature will be free from that kind of thing. The more important now than ever that our Democratic Legislature should possess the confidence of the people. It may ask them to trust the party to change the organic law. It may not do so. It may destroy this confidence by going back upon any pledges made the people during the campaign. Common honesty demands this much as the hands of our legislators, good policy and wise statesmanship demand it.

CLEAN AND STRONG

Speaker Pettus for a Constitutional Convention.

Glowing Tribute to the Black Belt Democrats.

Who Want Relief From the Present Evils.

No Makeshift Will Answer on This Occasion.

We Must Change Our Fundamental Law.

And Go Direct to the Tap Root of Existing Evils.

Selma, Dec. 26.—I have read with great interest Judge Caffee's letter upon the subject of a change in the election methods of the state and your editorial of the 25th inst. and I thank both Judge Caffee and yourself for the kind words you have to say about me personally. I was born and reared in Dallas county, and my boyhood and early manhood were largely spent amid the reconstruction scenes in Dallas county. I see through no man of Caucasian lineage could live and not have the recollection burned into his being. At the period in man's estate, at which impressions are most indelibly impressed upon us, I witnessed the rule of the pillage and the carpet-bagger, leading, as they did, a horde of electors fresh from slavery and drunken with the fumes of newly given power. Since arriving at man's estate I have been one of the men of the black belt with the conviction, deep set and a part of my very being, that nothing short of death itself were not preferable to a return to the days when the virtue and intelligence and manhood of our people were a scoff and a byword in the mouths of oppressors. I believe there is no true man in our whole black belt who does not hope for and advocate absolute purity in elections. The men of the black belt, and certainly of Dallas county, of Dallas, who are selected as managers of elections are always selected from our very best citizens, resident in the precinct in which the election is to be held. They are selected for their manhood, their courage, honesty, their respectability and their love for white supremacy. As a rule, they are the most prosperous men in their neighborhood. The men who would prefer infinitely death to dishonor to themselves or their community. It may be admitted that some of their actions in some particular may be subject to criticism, and if so, you must criticize all of us, for no true man lives among us who will not shoulder any responsibility or blame which may be attached to any one of them. Now, Judge Caffee has suggested, and you have reiterated in words, I were more than human if I did not appreciate that I should endeavor in the Alabama Legislature to relieve the black belt counties and the state of Alabama from these burdens which have rested so long and so heavily upon them. To me, this is no new question; I have given the subject much thought and have spent much time in the examination of the statutes of States resting under similar conditions. The laws of Tennessee and South Carolina and Mississippi and Arkansas have been carefully and laboriously investigated. I have investigated the constitutions and laws of every state which has a record of recent years, new methods of conducting them, and I now state, after thorough and careful and deliberate investigation, and thought, that there is no remedy for us, except in a change in our fundamental law. Makeshifts and shams, it is the way, be devised, but nothing permanent or lasting or of real benefit or honesty can be attained, except through the medium of a constitutional convention. Many amendments to our constitution are needed; many have been pointed out by the general assembly, in separate resolutions, and have received the approval of our chief executive, and have been submitted to the popular vote of the electors of the state, and while singular uniformity have been rejected, notably that was known as the "Birmingham amendment." I believe, as favored by every citizen in Birmingham, which received the unanimous support of both branches of the general assembly, which was approved by the governor, and then which, when submitted to a vote of the people, no man opposed it was overwhelmingly defeated. I am, as you rightly judge, entirely in favor of a radical change of election methods in Alabama, and I believe that we should go to the root of the evil. The people of Alabama are an honest people, believing in right and willing to do justice to all. Let us go before them with a call for a constitutional convention, ask for their permission, frankly and fairly, to change our fundamental law in regard to elections, and adopt, substantially, the Mississippi system. If they should refuse, then we must again take up our burden and bear it as best we may, trusting that the all-wise father, who has imposed this burden upon us, will in his own good time, relieve us from it. I shall have the honor, upon the reassembling of the general assembly, on the 19th of January, to introduce into the house of representatives a bill calling a constitutional convention, and to the best of my ability I shall endeavor to have it enacted into a law.

Most respectfully,
FRANCIS L. PETTUS.

A BAPTISM OF BLOOD.

TERRIBLE BATTLE IN THE SAN JUAN MINING CAMP.

Eleven Men Reported Killed and Many Wounded—They Fought for the Possession of Very Rich Mines.

Denver, Col., Dec. 28.—The San Juan mining camp has followed the precedents of all great mining excitement by baptizing itself with human blood.

A courier arrived in Bluff City early this morning and reported a terrible battle yesterday, in which over 100 shots were exchanged. He reported eleven men killed and a large number wounded.

George Ferguson, an old prospector, and James Coffey, known as "Blind Jim," one of the best known characters in Arizona and New Mexico mining camps, are reported to be slain. The courier was in a state of breathless excitement, and had left the grounds after the last shots had been fired to obtain medical assistance.

A private dispatch from Dolores to John Edney, a Denver miner, contains the report. The trouble grew out of a dispute over certain claims which have been staked out. There are nearly 5,000 men in the fields, and there has been very little attention paid to staking off claims. The prospectors have simply depicted their time to prospecting and staking off claims. A few claims have been staked out, however, in places where many dollars to the pin have been turned over.

The direct cause of the trouble was the discovery of large nuggets in the bottom of a small stream. Up to the moment of the rich strike everything was all right, but the sight of the large nuggets has the same effect on the prospectors as a red rag has on a maddened bull. Each man claimed that he had first located the ground, and to settle the dispute firearms were brought to bear. Over forty men were engaged in the terrible conflict. Few, if any, escaped unhurt.

Information of the trouble has caused the greatest excitement in Denver among prospectors who were skeptical as to the enormous wealth of the new gold fields. The battle will undoubtedly bring thousands of people into the new camp, for old prospectors regard deadly conflicts over mining claims as the best evidence of the rich strikes.

THE VOICE OF THE MIGHT.

There is something unspeakably ludicrous to men of intelligence in the fearful dread of "Romanism" that possesses some simple souls.

For several days the disgusting rumor that Mr. Blaine had joined the Catholic Church and that he has all along been a Catholic in disguise, has tipped through and through the country whispering the horrible secret to a fearful people. Mr. Blaine's family have felt called upon to issue a forthright denial and thus relieve a number of well-meaning but nervous and simple-minded people of their apprehensions. If Mr. Blaine were to join the Catholic church on his death-bed a hundred able divines would preach his funeral sermon in stammering language and Elliott Shepard would call for troops to stave the Vatican. But this is not the sign of rampant Romanism that has terrorized the hearts of the faithful. The Presbyterian ministers of Philadelphia discussed the presidential election a few days ago. Ministers in that part of the country are given to talk of things. One of these ministers told the startled assembly that they might as well face the fact that the election was a triumph of Romanism, and that we should have a Romanist postmaster general who would have more respect than an army. The appalling possibility of a descent from President to Roman Catholic postoffice did not fail to produce the desired shudder among the faithful; but one hard-headed old preacher took an optimistic view of the situation and attempted to allay the panic by asserting that President-elect Cleveland was, like his predecessor, a "sterling Calvinist" and therefore the country was safe in his hands. It was not to be thought of that a "sterling Calvinist" would Romanize the mails.

All this would be laughable if it were not for the fact that educated ministers of the gospel shouting themselves red in the face over their own horrible blasphemy, and growing frantic with terror at the drawing of monstrous and diabolical conclusions from the blundering speech of a defeated Blaine, was only one of a considerable class of clerical chumps. His blunder deservedly brought defeat to his candidacy for the office called attention to the spirit of religious bigotry and intolerance in the Republican party, which it has inherited from the Puritan witch-burners and women-whippers. This same element are now doing their best to create a factitious alarm by crying "Romanism!" The preacher who congratulated the country upon the fact that Mr. Cleveland was a "sterling Calvinist" was no whit less foolish than he who feared the appointment of a Roman Catholic in the office of the suvelling and eating Wamamaker. Mr. Cleveland is a "sterling" Democrat and such he is free from all religious bigotry and preaches no man on account of his religious belief. When the time comes that a man must not belong to any particular church to hold office in this country we shall have made a wide departure from one of the foundation principles of American institutions and a long march toward tyranny in its darkest and cruelest form.—Memphis Commercial.

Barley.

Barley as a regular grain crop is but little known in the South. It is, however, one of the standards in various parts of the world, in the old world especially. All over the Pacific coast of North America the grain is extensively grown, taking the place of our Italian corn as an element of food for horses and other livestock on the farm or ranch. The California crop of barley is immense, there being, as a rule, no corn cultivated in that State except on small scale in a few localities, and then the product is confined almost exclusively to the roasting ear, malt. Not one horse in a thousand in California knows what corn is. It is a little remarkable that our Southern people have so long neglected this valuable grain. It is more valuable as a horse food than corn, and it is far more economy in growing barley. With the majority of our Southern farmers, corn is one of our most troublesome and expensive of all the grains to cultivate. To grow it successfully requires long and close attention to the season of its culture, and harvesting stretching from February to November.

With the same expense of cultivation and labor, generally, it yields a barley crop the barley will grow worth largely more to the Southern farmer than the corn crop gives on our average land, while the period of cultivation and harvesting embraces only a few days each in the fall and summer.

One of the great advantages barley has over corn is that it enables the farmers to dispose of the employment and feeding of his hogs through the long months of summer. Another advantage lies in the fact that one of the most valuable features of the barley crop comes in the rich pasture, or soiling, which the plant affords in the winter times when green food is scarce and important. Experiment made by some of our most progressive farmers in Georgia in the cultivation of barley show that it can not only be grown with great success as a grain crop, but that those experiments have demonstrated clearly also that it is one of our most valuable plants for soiling purposes. The season of the year is now approaching for sowing barley. We would advise our planters who have not heretofore had experience in growing the grain to plant a few acres as an experimental crop. The ground should be well prepared, well fertilized and plowed deeply; and then the grain sowed very thickly and harrowed in, leaving the land so that a scythe or mowing machine can easily run over it.—M. V. M. in Houston Post.

From the Gold Fields.

ORAY, Colo., January 4.—The first stage to and from the new San Juan gold field, has returned to Dolores, having made the trip to Bluff City and returned in four days with one coach, six horses and twenty-one passengers.

Two stage passengers report 7,000 men there and that the rush comes at the rate of 600 daily. They are scattered over a territory of 50 miles in extent. Gold is all over the region and great results are anticipated. Digging will begin near Bluff City and extend for 250 miles along San Juan and Colorado rivers and over the adjacent country.

DESPERADOES DANGLE

AT THE DOOR OF PRECOURTHOUSE IN GREENVILLE, ALA.

People of Justice Again the Name of Confusion Without Judge or Jury.—Greenville Sight for Blind People.

Birmingham, Dec. 30.—When the citizens of Greenville, Ala., arose this morning they saw two dead bodies dangling from the court house steps. Late two strangers went to Jailor Bergin's house and arousing him told him they had a prisoner. He went with them to the jail, where he was met by a mob of 100 armed men, who were hidden behind a fence, with drawn pistols, and demanded the keys, which Bergin surrendered. The cells of John Hilt and Charles Kelly, the alleged murderers of Tax Collector C. J. Armstrong of Butler county, were opened and both men were taken out in their night clothes and hurried to the court house steps. The mob then quietly dispersed. The verdict of the coroner's jury is that the men were strangled by unknown persons. A young white collecting taker, was murdered from ambush and robbed of $2,000. Daniel Paulner creek bridge, John Hilt, a noted desperado, was arrested a week ago after a desperate fight with a sheriff's posse, in which Hilt was seriously wounded, and last Sunday Kelly was caught in Monroe county. The evidence against both was deemed to be conclusive, and as it was ascertained that these men had been guilty of several murders they were lynched.

THE ASSASSIN.

And the Accomplishes in the Hands of the Law.

The murderer of R. P. Hairston was arrested at Bessemer by Detective Tom Hewlett yesterday morning.

His name is Glover Jones, and he is a negro. He was brought to the city, and at 3:40 in the afternoon Detective Hewlett left with him by the Alabama Great Southern train for Eutaw.

Early yesterday morning Jim Rencher, a colored accomplice and his brother, John Rencher, were arrested as they were boarding the steamer Tally on the Bigbee river, near Dew's landing.

"After being arrested Jim Rencher made a confession to the effect that one G. P. Williams, a white man who kept a small store near Hairston, and sought to rival Hairston in trade, gave him, Rencher, and Glover Jones $50 each to kill Hairston, and that Jones did kill the merchant planter while the latter was going home from his store; that Jones got $3 in money and a pearl-mounted pistol from Hairston's body. Furthermore, that Williams endeavored a year ago to get Key Rencher, brother of the prisoners, to put Hairston out of the way, but that Rencher had refused his offered bribes, which consisted of a shotgun and a railroad ticket to Texas."

It is alleged, in this connection, that Williams' little store was really on land owned or controlled by Hairston; but for a year or two Williams had been very bitter in his expressions concerning the more successful man 100 or 200 yards away.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

The assassination of R. Percy Hairston at 3:30 o'clock on the night of the December 21 was one of the foulest of crimes.

Hairston is a station on the Alabama Great Southern railroad, near Bogdige. Mr. Hairston was one of the largest land owners and planters in the state.

He was a prominent citizen and one of the leading democratic politicians in his county. He was a son-in-law of the late Gen. S. A. M. Wood of Tuscaloosa.

The news of the murder created a profound sensation when it reached Birmingham in the shape of a telegram to Mr. T. M. Sumner, Hairston's brother-in-law, asking for dogs. The response was immediate, and Sheriff Morrow, with Special Agent Matthews of the railroad, several deputies and trained dogs left at once for the scene.

In addition to his other interests, Mr. Hairston was the proprietor of a large supply store at Hairston station on the Alabama Great Southern road, and his residence is about a half mile away on the hillside.

On Wednesday night about 10 o'clock Mr. Hairston and a negro servant left the store to go home. Between the house and the store is a gulch, which is spanned by a small foot bridge.

When near this place a shot was fired, and Hairston fell to the ground dead. The negro, it appears, saw the flash and was only a short distance from Hairston at the time, but, as he says, thought nothing strange of it and went on home. By this action it was believed that he is in some way connected with the crime.

Sheriff Morrow discovered that a short distance from where the body was found the next morning they found horse tracks, and they led off up the gulch and out into the road some distance down the railroad and were lost. It was believed that there were two men connected with the killing, but there was one horse. The track was so cold the dogs could do nothing with it.

A Pen Tribute to the Memory of Miss Lizzie Burke.

What is this pain that would free
This unforgetting sorrow?
This dread suspense, unknown and yet
We hoped 'twould end tomorrow
Oh who can lift this deepening gloom.
Death's icy hand has spread Who pierce these heavy mists that hide
The visage of our dead.

We look around the home that haunts,
That of her footstep traced
The voice that taught but kindness knew,
Is hushed in Death's embrace.
Transported from this exile home,
That voice will speak in Heaven;
Where crown for cross, and bliss for pain,
Forever will be given.

'Tis sweet to think that God has called
The blossom home, he lent
The summons tho' keen, sorrows sword
To a parent's heart has sent A father on whose snow white brow,
Full many a sun has rose;
Is mourning for an absent child, Whom Heaven has claimed from woes.

Look down on earth, beloved and keep Thy father from all harm,
For oft upon thy childhood's heart,
He's loved affection warm.
Affection that in death he makes,
A strong, holier bond; Indissoluble on earth 'twill be,
And in the Home beyond.

Is this the death that fills the soul,
With overwhelming grief,
That numbs heart and mind and thoughts,
In time so short, so brief,
Then let us live, that death to us,
Will be no cumbersome grief,
But a peaceful sleep which over, We'll wake to find relief.—N. C. B. in Helena Daily World.

And if perchance, a fault has stayed,
Her yearning soul from bliss;
If Purgatory's cleansing fires, Must free a stain like this:
Then those who mourn thy absence,
Will not heed thy knell
Of pity, but in fervent prayer,
The "De Profundis" tell.

No more the evening shadows will
For thee, dear dead, the greeting;
A mother's salutation sweet,
No more will be thy pleading.
No more at morn, at night, to hush,
The name of Mary dear;
To hide within her mantle pure,
To speak to heart that's nearest.

The consummation of all hopes.
The "Beatific Vision,"
The glories of the House of God,
Is Heaven thy soul's Elysium.
The smiles of her, whose caresses,
Thy voice in song was sweet,
She'll bid thee with the Virgin throng Forever more content.

For she in whose short life we know,
Great blessings had been wrought;
Had kind words for the erring one,
Each act with merit fraught.
To the sorrowing a comfort give,
A victory to achieve.

All this for him, who deigned to give Earth's wealth, a plenty store,
The poor, their sufferings allayed,
His glory praised, what more.
We pray, for all these charities,
Our dead has now been given,
All beauiful, celestial bright,
A crown of life in Heaven.

Prozen to Death.

Anniston, Jan. 16.—Walker Trout, an old negro man, who lived alone in a little shack on Cider row, was found dead this morning. He had been sick for some time, but it is thought that he froze to death, as he had little clothing of any kind.

Anniston, Jan. 26.—Noah Lowman, a negro brakeman on the Georgia Pacific, was found lying by the track, early this morning, frozen stiff. Remained by the intense cold, he is supposed to have fallen from the top of a car and to have frozen while unconscious from injuries received.

Knoxville, Jan. 16.—Not for thirty years has there been such severe weather as now prevails in this section. The thermometer is far below zero, and a dozen or more people are reported frozen to death. Business of all kinds is suspended, and the united efforts of the city officials and church members are being utilized to aid the poor. All trains are late and it is difficult to run them on any thing near schedule time.

Francis Wilsons Shaking Thudly.
Reginald de Koven, the composer of "Robin Hood," gave a dinner recently to a number of people. Among these was Francis Wilson, a painfuly timid man of the stage (says the Recorder). Mr. Wilson was seated near the hostess. "Have you any children, Mr. Wilson?" she asked sweetly. "I have two, thank you," replied Francis, with a perceptible blush. "Are they boys or girls?"
beamingly. "They are both girls," he thanked me, "I assure you!"
There was immediately an unusual rattling of tableware and a sudden resumption of general conversation.

A DESPERATE NEGRO.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 13.— Shortly after midnight Miss Duncan, residing in this city, opened the door of her residence, when a big negro seized her and tried to abduct her.
She screamed and her father, T. A.
Duncan, came to the rescue.
The negro shot Mr. Duncan fatally and fled, also shooting a bloodhound that was put after him.

To Aid a Good Cause.

Anniston, Jan. 16.—The stockholders of the Anniston Industrial company held a meeting this afternoon and voted $500 worth of stock in the proposed Anniston Yarn and Cordage company.

Fire at Anniston.

Anniston, Jan. 16.—The two story residence on Wilmer, between 11th and 12th street, owned by James H.
Stokes, was burned. The fire originated near the roof and was caused by a defective flue. Nearly all of Mrs.
Stokes' furniture was burned, but she carried an insurance of $1000.
The house was valued at $2500 and was insured for $1500.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Let's see how that is. Cleveland's old home gave a majority for Harrison. Harrison's home returned the compliment and gave a majority for Cleveland.
McKinley's home went Democratic and David T. Hill's went Republican. A man's strength can't always be measured by home popularity.—

FOURTY BELOW ZERO

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—The temperature in St. Paul today has ranged all the way from 12 degrees below zero to 28 below, and the indications point to a registry of more than 30 below by tomorrow. All Minnesota points have the coldest day of the winter. It was 30 degrees below zero at Elk river this morning, and at several northern Minnesota points 40 below was registered. All trains are from one to five hours late, owing to the extreme cold.

WEAVER IN ARIZONA.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 15.—Gen.
James B. Weaver opens the populist campaign in this territory January 18. Efforts are being made by the populists to control the next legislature in anticipation of its statehood and the election of a United States senator. Weaver will be assisted by Gen. A. J. Strasser of Illinois. Later he will be assisted by Mrs. Lease of Kansas.

Mother at Prayer.

Once, says a writer, I suddenly opened the door of my mother's room and saw her on knees beside her chair, and heard her speak my name in prayer. I quickly and quietly withdrew with a feeling of awe and reverence in my heart. Soon I went away from home to school, then to college, then into life's sterner duties. But I never forgot that one glimpse of my mother at prayer, nor the one word—my own name—which I heard her utter. Well did I know that what I had seen that day was but a glimpse of what was going on every day in that sacred closet of prayer, and the consciousness strengthened me a thousand times in duty, in danger, and in struggle.
When death came at last and sealed those lips, the sorest sense of loss I felt was the knowledge that no more would my mother be praying for me.

ANNISTON!

"No other house does, ever did, or ever will sell such sterling values at such low prices as we quote."

QUALITY

Is the "bone and sinew" of every garment in our stock, and on it we rest our reputation. Every day swells the chorus of praise that are being sung to the success of our achievements. The hundreds of patrons who have already sounded the depths of our resources this season are enthusiastic. THAT WE MAKE THE CLOTHING WE SELL SEEMS TO FILL EVERYONE WITH CONFIDENCE. We claim for it but its just dues.

It is the Finest that Can be Made.

Cause is the parent of effect. We couldn't give you the service you were entitled to—and depend on the trade for our supply, so we jumped into the breach ourselves, rolled up our sleeves and went to work on our own hook. We put the Best Fabrics the mills of the world weave in the hands of the Most Expert Artisans, and kept a zealous watch over every step. What could come out of such a combination but perfection? Make your wants known. All we need is a hint of your desire, and we can parade before you a stock of Fall Suits and Overcoats that so far excel in quantity, quality and variety the vain boasts of others as to drop them into the pit of obscurity. Judge by facts, not fancies. Call at our establishment, devoted exclusively to our stock of crowded to their utmost capacity with the latest patternings of fashion. Then bring this magnificent display in contrast with the meager assortments others are showing.

Roll the resources of any three of them together, and we are leaders still! Take our prices into account. The same enterprise that perfected the qualities has curtailed the costs. We have brought both ends of satisfaction together—The Highest Values and the Lowest Prices. In every one of our grades, from $10 to $40, in both Suits and Overcoats, you may rest assured you are getting

FULL VALUE.

In the Boy's and Children's Department you will find we have followed fickle fashion through all her various moods. The superior quality that we insist shall be a known quality in everything we show, leaves us only the most notable fountains to draw from. Two Piece Short Pants Suits, Long Pants Suits, Reefers or Overcoats, are all original effects, selected by us, made up to our notion, and left to our exclusive control. We are not talking idly. These are facts, and you need not be a clothing expert to appreciate them. They are self-evident.

Calls are being made for the heavier overgarments. Ours are ready, tuned on the same chord of consistent perfection, what a wealth of variety is awaiting your inspection.

On the Death of Mrs. O. C. Clark

For the Age, Aged,
Like a counterpoint whose timbre
Long has trembled with the swell
Sweet and low, of notes that gently Softly soothe and plaintively fall—
Till the hand which woke so sadly Every melancholy tone
By its practice knew the sorrow
Would succeed a touch alone
When, with almost human feeling,
Seems to still to weep a strain,
Snaps at once its weird tension,
And no sound will make again:
Was the life of her we buried
Run by our hearts today,
Gone that quick and solemn summons Much too hastily, O'er,
Oh, the deep consoling pathos Quivered over in her song!
And the smooth contralto cadence Seemed its melody prolong!
Thrills her last heard voice in many Early hearts and hopes still—What were lost! And hope no heaven
For it, evermore to fill.

The Girl I Loved at School

When the mellow days of autumn Wrap the hills in purple haze
And the sun seems all the drearier
For the shortness of the days, Comes a lovely apparition through The mists of the years,
And I don't know why it is so that My eyes will swim with tears—For I hate to judge emotions by the Text-book rule and rule,
And I only know I'm thinking of the Girl I loved at school.

Of the deepest brownest velvet are The sweetest thoughtful eyes,
And the cheeks are like the roses that Our grandmothers used to prize—
Not the pampered, pinky blossoms
That the hot house man deals out At four dollars for a dozen and with Paste-board wrapped about—
But the dear old daisy roses that Would hold their dust till Yule—Just the sort I used to gather for the Girl I loved at school.

And the lips—no, no! not ruby! for The coldness of the mine Chills the jewel's burnished surface
Though the fiery rays may shine
In the glazing of the gaslight; fitter Far do they compare
With the warm glow in your cheeks;
The same fragrance lingers there;
The same thrill runs through me as When on the organ stool
My lips first pressed the pulsing lips
Of her I loved at school.

And the form it grows distincter as The misty veil grows thin,
And the silver belt that linked her Like the serpent shutting in All the earth retained of heaven, his-ses out "Thou jealous fool!"
For I parted in my anger from the Girl I loved at school.
And I know not if the fleeting of the Purple autumn days
Bring us nearer to the greeting at the Meeting of our ways;
If it be I may not meet her till we've Crossed the Stygian pool, Yet I think that I shall greet her as
The girl I loved at school.

Only a Mite.

BY MRS. E. L. BENNETT.

He lay there, watched by our Father, Smitten in mercy at last;
Free from a cruel disease,
Dying, dead, and at rest.
Better to be a homely mite,
Suffering, weak, and kind,
Than the human brute who hath slain him.
The man, with the lotter, ~~was~~ found In the day of the "just man perfect."
Ah, laugh not a brute to scorn,
Better to be a useless mite,
Than a beast in human form.

Only a mite in the harness Fallen because the load Was heavier than his frame could draw.
Over the slippery road.
Only a mite, and he lay there,
Suffering, helpless, forlorn,
With all the throbbing, sensitive nerves,
Of a human princely born.

Yes, he lay there an emblem of patience,
Dying in spite of the lash—
Dying in spite of the cruel rage, Curses and words so rare.

McKin Film Burned.

Hellin, Jan. 21.—The new hotel was burned to the ground last night.
But little furniture was saved, except from the dining room. The fire originated in a room up stairs, which was occupied by a drummer. His room was all ablaze when discovered, and he barely escaped a horrible death. Dr. Neil carried him down stairs and sent him to the Central hotel. Though he received some injuries, he was doing reasonable well today. The house was insured for $3500. Hellin is but ten years old, yet there has been much loss here by fire. The average is something over $2000 a year.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Young Man Killed by His Own Gun—Man Wounded by His Son.

Piedmont, Ala., Jan. 20.—This morning while hunting, Jack Morgan, a young man about 15 years of age, was upon a brush heap trying to get a hare out when he slipped and fell upon his gun which discharged the contents into the back of Morgan's head, blowing a large hole, the lead lodging in his brain. He died before his parents reached home with him.
P. C. Becknell was also shot in the thigh with a small rifle. While his son was loading the weapon behind him he accidentally fired the gun shooting his father in the thigh, leaving a painful but not serious wound.

For the Sake of "And Long Since"

In behalf of the monument to the Private Soldier and Sailor of the Confederate States, whose valor and devotion have won alike the undying gratitude of our people and the admiration of the world; and in behalf of the Memorial Museum, to be established in the mansion occupied by President Davis, as long as the Confederacy lasted, this appeal is made, to which every citizen of the Southern States is earnestly asked to give sympathy and support.

It is designed that the monument shall speak for each State of the Confederacy, for its sacred love and reverence for the dead, the name of each State graven on the stones forming the majestic column upon which will stand the stalwart figure of the Confederate Private; and in the museum, where one may learn the true story of that dire struggle, and "till the spirit of that self-sacrifice which gladly gave its all at the call of duty, it is intended to assign a room to each State (bearing its name), in which shall be placed the regimental relics of the glorious past; and that it shall also be represented on the Board of Managers by a lady resident from that State.

Throughout the South there are many patriotic monuments erected to the memory of the gallant leaders of the Confederacy, but none to the heroic private, who won his glorious victories and bore the severest hardships. These monuments are to commemorate the virtues of all the heroes from all the Southern States.

Perhaps no one spot so speaks of the people of the Confederacy, or is more associated with their unparalleled heroism, than Richmond, the Capital, on whose most lofty hill, overlooking these fields once drenched with the blood of the soldier from every State, and that on sweeping river so gallantly defended by the intrepid sailor, it should be our pride and glory to rear this unique monument—the combined offering of love and gratitude from the entire Southern people. And surely within the walls where so often gathered the valiant men and true, those lasting memorials of the noble sons and daughters of the South should be sacredly guarded, that the Past may be ever held in honor remembrance, and our children's children may learn—

"To emulate a thing it is to endure and be strong."

To this end, there will shortly be held in this city a Memorial Bazaar.
In it there will be a table, or tent, for each State, bearing its name, shield, colors, and motto; and it is earnestly desired that each State shall assist its own table with contributions of all kinds. This bazaar will be under the auspices of the Memorial Associations and Confederate Camps, and direct appeals will soon be sent out by them to enlist the active co-operation of those who never failed to pioneer what now is only a memory dear to every heart—the cause they believed to be right.

and the Confederate Veteran Camps

Two More Election Bills.

There were two more bills to regulate the general election laws in this State introduced in the House Saturday. Mr. Sayre's bill makes the payment of poll taxes for the preceding year a condition for registration. The registration shall close sixty days before an election. The registrar's certificate must be produced by the elector at the time of voting. The vote shall be prepared cast as provided for in the Australian ballot law.
The other election bill was introduced by Mr. Brown, of Colbert.
It makes some radical changes. The bill first lays down as a requisite to voting, that the elector must present at the time of registering his poll tax receipt and at the time of voting his certificate of registration. It further provides that the registration of each county must prior to the election file in the office of the Secretary of State the registration list of his county. The bill provides that the ballots shall be numbered, but allows the voter to request that his ballot shall not be numbered, upon which the inspectors shall accept ballot and deposit it in the box, keeping a men-doranum of such request. The law further provides that the tickets or ballots shall be printed by the county, and shall not be less than two and a half inches wide and shall contain all the names of candidates duly nominated with the offices for which they will be voted. The elector will receive a ballot from one of the inspectors and will retire to a booth where he will erase the names of all parties for whom he does not desire to vote, and opposite the names of those for whom he does wish to vote he shall make a cross mark and if he fails to either erase a name he does not wish to vote for or to cross a name he does wish to vote for ballot shall be void as to that official. The bill further provides for the content of an election as to State officers before the General Assembly, next following the election. The content to be filed with the Secretary of State, who shall call for ballot boxes from counties, desired to be opened and counted in the General Assembly.
The bill provides that the contestant shall be required to give bond in the sum of $5,000 to secure the costs—

THE MAYRE ELECTION BILL.

Synopsis of a Bill Now Pending in the House of Representatives.

The bill provides for an official ballot and the printing and distributing of the official ballot shall be under the charge of the probate judges of the various counties of the State.
Upon these ballots shall be the names of all the candidates nominated by any caucus, convention, mass meeting or primary election of any political party, the name of any person requested to be a candidate, signed in the case of any state or federal office by at least 500 qualified electors—in the case of a county office by at least twenty-five qualified voters. All nominations must be made not more than sixty or less than twenty days before the election. It is a felony to make falsely or fraudulently destroy, suppress or forge any certificate of nomination. The probate judges of the counties are required to prevent the certificates and petitions of nominees for at least six months.

The ballots provided by the bill shall contain the names of all the candidates nominated for the same and different offices, which names shall be printed together and arranged alphabetically, irrespective of party. Each polling place is provided with stalls so arranged that the elector may prepare his ballot in secrecy.

No person whatever shall be allowed within 50 feet of any polling place, save officers of election. The elector prepares his ballot by making with pen and ink or stencil on the margin before the name of each candidate of his choice an x mark.
If any elector applying to vote shall declare on oath his inability to read the English language, he may have the assistance of a person to be appointed for that purpose by the inspectors of election in the preparation of his ballot. Any person who makes a false declaration as to his ability to prepare his ballot is guilty of a felony and any assistant who willfully deceives any elector in preparing his ballot shall be guilty of felony. And any person who shall disclose how any elector may have voted shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Where the electors consist of persons of different races they are admitted to the polling place alternatly. Any person who permits another to see his ballot is guilty of a misdemeanor, or any person who has a ballot in his possession outside the polling place is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The officer who assists the illiterate elector in preparing his ballot is not permitted to make suggestions to any elector as to how he shall vote, but shall receive from such elector the name of each candidate for each office for whom he desires to vote.
The ballot shall be cast secretly.

Death of a Physician.

Died, Tuesday, January the 17th, 1893, at his son's residence in Piedmont, Dr. J. W. Kinabrew, in the 74th year of his age.

His remains were interred in the cemetery in Piedmont on Wednesday, in the presence of relatives and friends, and of Rev. P. H. Brewster and Rev. G. W. Hamilton who conducted the burial services.

Dr. Kinabrew, or the "old doctor" as he was called to distinguish him from his son, Dr. V. H. Kinabrew, the well-known physician of this city was born in Columbus county, Georgia, where he was actively engaged in the duties of his profession prior to his removal to Piedmont, eight years ago. On coming to this city he redistinguished his practice to the able care of his son beside whom he leaves one living child, Mrs. A. J.
Enford, of near Cartersville, Ga.

He had been troubled with an affection of the heart for ten years, and a late attack of a gripe aggravated it.
Two months before the death of his wife, who deceased last February, he was taken seriously ill, and his life was despaired of. Good medicine, care and nursing, combined with a stay at Piedmont Springs, bettered his condition until a few days ago, when he contracted the attack of pneumonia which was the immediate cause of his death.

In appearance he was a man of fine physique and was both active and energetic. In his profession he was skillful and observant. His character was such that he commanded respect from all; admiration from his friends; and love from his relatives.
He was a member of the Baptist church.—Piedmont Inquirer.

A New Home for the Louisiana Lottery.
The Louisiana State Lottery has been granted a charter from the Republic of Honduras, and will move its business to the country on the expiration of its present charter, which will be January 1, 1894. The concession is a monopoly of the lottery business for the term of fifty years. The Honduras government grants the company the island of Guanaja, in the islands of the Bay of Honduras, which is to be used in such manner as the company may see fit for its purposes.

The government concedes free of cost to the company all lands which may be required for lottery purposes throughout the republic of Honduras.
All lottery tickets to be issued by the company are to be impressed by the official seal of the Honduras government, and all drawings are to be supervised by the government. Imitation of the tickets of the company is to be a crime subject to the strict laws of the republic against counterfeiting.
An important feature of the concession is the granting of the right to lay a cable line on any point on the coasts of Honduras to the United States, the Antilles or to Europe.

The Honduras government, as a consideration for the granting of the charter, is to have free use of the cable, and of the steamship lines, and is to receive $1,000,000 in American gold coin, and a graduated percentage of from 1 to 10 per cent on the face value of all the tickets sold by the company.

Rescued by the Father.

J. W. Speer and his little ten-year-old daughter visited at the house of Mrs. Kenny, who lives near the cotton factory, on Sunday afternoon.
While playing around the house, the little girl's dress was set on fire when she went too near an open grate. She ran screaming to her father who wrapped her in woolen cloth, extinguished the fire which was burning her dress, and thus saved her life.
Mr. Speer's hands were badly burned in his efforts to save his child.
The little girl had a narrow escape from a terrible death.—Piedmont Inquirer.
